Mocombe's Reading Room Series In 1999, Paul C. Mocombe created the Mocombeian Curriculum for The Russell Life Skills and Reading Foundation, Inc. A language based curriculum, it was designed to help inner-city youth close the achievement gap by becoming superior readers. To help reach more youth, Dr. Mocombe founded the Mocombeian Foundation, Inc. in 2008 as a 501 c3 non-profit organization to help disseminate the curriculum state and nationwide free of charge. The Curriculum consists of a series (Mocombe's Reading Room Series) of six books to be utilized by parents, teachers, and volunteers to help students read better and close the achievement gap. Each book consists of grade appropriate lessons based on national standards in phonics, grammar, vocabulary, and reading, labeled accordingly, in order to teach students how to read (the Mocombeian Strategy). The idea behind this strategy is that the mastering of Standard English language skills will make all students better readers, and enhance their educational experience.
